DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-2, 6-7, 27-29, drawn to nucleic acids and oligonucleotides, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1, 24.3, for example.
 - II. Claims 3-5, drawn to methods of diagnosing a patient as having an increased risk of developing HH disease, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
 - III. Claims 8-26, drawn to polypeptides, classified in class 530, subclass 350.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:
 - A) The inventions of Groups I and II are patentably distinct products because the DNA of Group I and the protein of Group II have different structures, properties and functions. The DNA of Group I is composed of nucleotides linked in phosphodiester bonds and arranged in space as a double helix. The DNA can function not only for the expression of the protein but also as a probe in a nucleic acid hybridization assay and in a nucleic acid amplification assay, for example. In contrast, the polypeptide of Group II is composed of amino acids linked in peptide bonds and arranged spatially in a number of different tertiary structures including alpha helices, beta-pleated sheets, and hydrophobic loops (transmembrane domain). The polypeptide can function not only as a receptor but also for the generation of polyclonal and monoclonal antibodies and for the affinity purification of those antibodies or of ligands for the receptor.

B) Group II and III are patentable distinct inventions because the polypeptide of Group III is not relied upon in the method of Group II. Instead Group II uses a nucleic acid detection method. Therefore, the inventions are novel and unobvious over one another.

C) Inventions I and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the nucleic acid may be used in a materially different method such as purification methods, aptamer screening methods, hybridization assays, antisense methods.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by the different classifications and their divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

5. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to examiner Jeanine Goldberg whose telephone number is (703) 306-5817. The examiner can normally be reached Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Any inquiry of a general nature should be directed to the Group receptionist whose telephone number is (703) 308-0196.
